Cheit

is the eighth letter of the aleph-bet and has a numerical value of 'eight'. The meaning of chet is chayos which means life. Although we all want to live forever, we know that is not attainable. Our Rabbis teach us that when we follow in the footsteps of our departed loved ones and emulate their values, they are, in a sense, very much alive. As you mark their yahrtzeit, you can gift them eternal life by taking one of their special qualities and making it part of your life experience.

חַמֶּשֶׁה לא יתְרַמוּ; וְאִם תְּרַמוּ, אֵין תְּרוּמָתָן תְּרוּמָה. הַחֵרֶשׁ, וְהַשׁוֹטָה, וְהַקֵּטָן, וְהַתּוֹרֵם אֶת שְׂאִינוֹ שְׁלוֹ. נְכָרִי שֶׁתָּרַם אֶת שֵׁל יִשְׂרָאֵל אֶפְלוֹ בְּרִשׁוֹת, אֵין תְּרוּמָתוֹ תְּרוּמָה.

Terumot 1:1

Five types of people may not separate terumah, and if they do, their terumah is not considered terumah: A deaf-mute, an imbecile, a minor, and one who separates terumah from that which is not his. If a non-Jew separated terumah from a Jew's produce, even with his permission, his terumah is not terumah.

Insights

When the Jewish people entered the land of Israel, they were obligated to give a percentage of their harvested crop to the Cohen and the Levite. The crop given to the Cohen was called terumah, and the crop to the Levite was called Maaser. There was also a percentage that had to be given to the poor.

Father Smith knocks on the Rabbi's door. Rabbi Cohen opens the door and sees his good friend standing there without his usual smile and twinkle in his eye. "Rabbi," he cries out, "you have to help me. I had a string of robberies. I need Divine intervention. Have you ever had a problem with robberies?"

"Not really," replies the Rabbi. "We have this thing we put on the doorpost called a mezuzah, and it protects our homes from harm." Father Smith begs him for one. The Rabbi doesn't see any problem with that; he gives him one and tells him how to affix it to his front door.

A few weeks later, there is a knock on the Rabbi's door. He opens the door and sees Father Smith holding the mezuzah. "Please, you can have to take it back."

"Why?" Asks the Rabbi, "were you robbed?"

"No, no," the Priest assures him, "no robberies."

"So why do you want to give it back?"

"Because the doorbell doesn't stop ringing ever since I hung it up. Each time a different man stands there, saying the same thing: 'Tzedakah please!'"

It is well documented that the Jewish people are the most benevolent and charitable. It is ingrained in us from the times of Abraham when he welcomed the three angels, portraying themselves as Arabs, into his tent.

The Sages state that if a Jew is not charitable, we should question his lineage.

On the day of the yahrtzeit, it is customary to give tzedakah in the memory of our departed loved ones to elevate their souls.

Shabbat 21:1

On Shabbos, one may take his son into the house, even though there is a stone, which is muktzeh (cannot be moved), in the child's hand. And it is permissible to take a basket with a stone inside on Shabbat. And one may move ritually impure teruma (food designated for the Cohen), which may not be eaten and is muktzeh (cannot be moved), with ritually pure teruma, as well as with non-sacred produce. Rabbi Yehuda says: One may even lift a measure of teruma that was nullified from a mixture of one hundred measures of non-sacred produce and one measure of teruma.

There are thirty-nine categories of work prohibited on Shabbat by Torah Law. Many have the misconception that Jewish law prohibits labor on the Shabbat and, therefore, they don't understand why we cannot turn on a light that takes no effort. Or driving a car to the synagogue, which takes less effort than walking.

The mistake lies in the inaccurate translation of one word in the Torah. When the Torah discusses the prohibition of not working on Shabbat, it does not use the word 'avodah' which is translated as work or labor. Instead, it uses the word 'melacha' which means a creative activity that demonstrates man's mastery over nature. By refraining from such actions, we acknowledge that G-d is the ultimate Creator and Master.

The Sages also enacted edicts whose purpose are to preserve the spirit of Shabbat as a day of rest and holiness. One such law is called muktzeh - certain objects must be set aside and not moved on Shabbat.

Some reasons for this law are: Since it is forbidden to work on Shabbat, one might utilize the free time to rearrange the items in their home and carry them from one place to another, in contrast to the spirit of Shabbat as a day of rest.

The Sages restricted the handling of items whose primary function is for an activity forbidden on Shabbat. Writing on the Shabbat is one of the thirty-nine Torah prohibitions. If we were permitted to hold a pen, inadvertently we may come to write with it. To safeguard this law, the Sages decreed that handling a pen is prohibited.

is the fourteenth letter of the aleph-bet and has a numerical value of 'fifty'. Nun means 'fish' in Aramaic, the language of the Talmud. When we stand by the sea and look down, all we see is water. Yet, we know beneath the surface there are thousands of different species of fish, coral, and vegetation. The fact that we can't see it does not negate its existence. Similarly, there is a spiritual world where the soul of the departed resides. Our inability to see it does not mean that it doesn't exist.

וְאֵלוֹ מְגַלְחִין בַּמוֹעֵד. הַבָּא מִמְּדִינַת הַיָּם, וּמֵבֵית הַשְּׂבִיָּה, וְהַיּוֹצֵא מֵבֵית הָאֲסוּרִין, וְהַמְּנַדֵּה שְׁהַתִּירוֹ לוֹ חֻכְמִים; וְכֵן מִי שֶׁנִּשְׁאַל לְחֻכְם וְהִתֵּר, וְהַנְּזִיר, וְהַמְּצַרֵּעַ הָעוֹלָה מִטְּמֵאתוֹ לְטַהֲרָתוֹ.

Moed Katan 3:1

And these may shave and cut their hair on Chol Hamoed (the intermediate days of a Festival): One who arrives from overseas; and one who is released from a house of captivity; and one who comes out of prison; and one who had been ostracized and the Sages released him; and similarly one who requested a Sage to dissolve his vow of not cutting his hair, and was released from it; and the Nazirite; and the leper who needs to shave his entire body in order to leave his state of ritual impurity and regain his ritual purity. Since these people were not able to cut their hair on the eve of the Festival, they are permitted to do so on the intermediate days of the Festival.

Insights

What is Chol Hamoed? The words Chol Hamoed literally means “the weekday of the holiday” and refers to the “intermediate period” of the festivals of Passover and Sukkot.

Work is prohibited during the full-fledged festival days of Pesach and Sukkot, much like Shabbat. On Chol Hamoed, however, we are permitted to do many activities, such as using electricity or driving a car.

The Rambam (12th-century scholar) explains that Chol Hamoed is called a holy gathering and is the time when the Festival sacrifice was brought in the Temple. There are four mitzvos of the Torah that are called a sign of G-d’s special relationship with us: Circumcision, Shabbat, Yom Tov (including Chol Hamoed), and Tefillin. Because Chol Hamoed is included in this very special category, we should treat Chol Hamoed with great respect. For example, our attire should be similar to what we wear on Shabbat.

Our Sages tell us that during Chol Hamoed, we should increase our Torah study.

Our Mishnah deals with the laws of Chol Hamoed. The Sages prohibited shaving or taking a haircut during Chol Hamoed. The reason is that they were concerned one would delay the haircut until Chol Hamoed, when they have more time, and enter Yomtov in a disheveled state.

Our Mishna mentions various situations when permission was granted to have a haircut on Chol Hamoed. Since he did not take a haircut before Yomtov because it was forbidden, we can assume that if he were permitted, he would not delay the haircut till Chol Hamoed.

is the sixth letter of the aleph-bet and has a numerical value of ‘six’. The meaning of vav is ‘and’. The first time it is used is in the opening verse of the Torah. “In the beginning G-d created the heavens and [vav] the earth.” It serves to join heaven and earth, spirit and matter. Likewise, the human being is a fusion of the spirit and matter, the soul and the body. The shape of the vav symbolizes humility. Humility is the key to creating harmony between body and soul.

Berachot 6:1

What blessing does one make on fruits? On fruits that grow on trees one says: “Who creates the fruit of the tree”, except wine. Although wine is produced from a fruit of the tree, due to its significance, its blessing differs from other fruits of the tree. Over wine one recites: “Who creates the fruit of the vine.” On fruits that grow from the earth, one says: “Who creates the fruit of the ground”, except for bread; on bread one recites: “Who brings forth bread from the earth.” Bread, too, is significant and its blessing differs from other fruits of the ground. Over herbs and vegetables, one says: “Who creates the fruit of the ground.” Rabbi Yehuda says: “Who creates various kinds of herbs.”

Insights

Why do we make a blessing before eating?

King David writes in Psalms, “The earth is G-d’s.” Our Sages infer that before benefitting from G-d’s world, we must ask permission by reciting a blessing; otherwise, it would be tantamount to stealing.

Chassidic teachings explain that all food contains a Gdly spark of holiness. When we say a blessing before eating and eat with the intention to serve Gd, we actually elevate the physical substance of the food into holiness and reunite it with its Divine source.

Every blessing begins with “Blessed are you G-d”. How can we, a mere mortal and a finite being, bless G-d, the Creator of the universe who lacks nothing?

Our Sages offer more sublime and profound explanations. Each time we make a blessing, we do not bless G-d; we acknowledge that G-d is the source of all our successes and prosperity.

Another explanation: The translation of the Hebrew word for blessing, ‘Bracha’, can be a ‘wellspring’. Each time we make a blessing we request G-d that His spiritual energy flow upon us.

Expressing our gratitude to G-d is not only when we partake of food. A great Rabbi once explained that one of the responses to death and mourning is silence; when we lose a loved one, we need to offer G-d a silent prayer of thanks. We need to recognize how our loved ones enriched our lives by being such an integral part of it, and we realize how our lives would have been lacking without their presence.

As you mark the yahrtzeit of your loved one, take a moment to reflect on the blessings you received by their presence in your life.

is the eleventh letter of the aleph-bet and has a numerical value of ‘twenty’. The kaf represents a ‘crown’. In Ethics of our Fathers it states, “There are three types of crowns: The crown of the Torah, the crown of Priesthood, and the crown of Kingship. However, the crown of possessing a good name stands higher than the previous three”. To become a great Torah scholar you need to be blessed with superior intellect and have the opportunity to devote your life to studying Torah. A Cohen is an inherited right. Likewise, you are born into a royal family. However, the crown of a good name is accessible to all.

is the twenty-first letter of the aleph-bet and has a numerical value of 'three hundred'. On the tefillin worn on the head are two shins - one with three vertical lines protruding from the base and one with four. They symbolize our three forefathers and our four mothers. When one loses a parent, mourning is for twelve months. For all other blood relatives, mourning is for thirty days. When we lose a parent, we have lost the golden link in the chain that takes us all the way back to Abraham, Yitzchak, Yaacov, Sarah, Rivkah, Rochel, and Leah. Hence, the mourning is more intense.

Shekalim 6,1

In the Temple there were thirteen chests, thirteen tables and thirteen prostrations. Members of the household of Rabban Gamaliel and of Rabbi Chanina, the chief of the priests, would prostrate fourteen times. And where was the additional prostration? In front of the wood storage yard, for they had a tradition from their ancestors that the Ark was hidden there.

King Solomon built the First Temple in 827 BCE, and it lasted for 410 years until the Greek Assyrian Empire destroyed it. The Jewish people were sent to exile in Babylonia for 70 years. It was during this period that the miracle of Purim happened. The Jewish people then returned to the Land of Israel, and under the guidance of the Prophets Ezra and Nechemya the Second Temple was built. It was completed in the year 349 BCE and lasted for 420 years. During this period the miracle of Chanukah occurred. It was destroyed by the Roman Empire in the year 69 CE. The third and final Temple will be built by Moshiach speedily in our days.

Three times a year - Pesach, Shavuot, and Sukkot - all males would make a pilgrimage to the Temple. There were ten constant miracles in the Temple. One of them was that even though the altar was outside and exposed to the heavens, the rain never extinguished its fire. Similarly, even though the altar was open to the elements, the winds never disturbed the smoke from rising straight upward like a pillar.

The Temples were the center of Jewish life. Our prayers focus on beseeching G-d that He should bring the Jewish people home and rebuild the Temple.

There is a fascinating discussion concerning the actual construction of the Third Temple: Either Moshiach and the Jewish people will build it, or as others say, it will descend from heaven. The Lubavitcher Rebbe suggests that the two opinions are not necessarily contradictory. One of the suggestions he offers is that the Temple will initially be built by Moshiach together with the Jewish people. And then, a spiritual covering will descend from heaven and enclose the Temple, thereby ensuring that the structure will be eternal.

is the thirteenth letter of the aleph-bet and has a numerical value of 'forty'. The word mem stands for mayim, which means water. A human being cannot survive without water.

Torah, the most vital element in our spiritual lives, is referred to as water, as it states: "Water refers to Torah." Just as a human being cannot survive without water, a Jew cannot survive without Torah. By studying the mishnayot in this booklet, you will receive spiritual sustenance.

Berachot 3:1

One whose deceased relative is not yet buried is exempt from reading the Shema and the Amida prayer, and from the mitzvah to wear tefillin, until the deceased has been buried. Concerning the pallbearers and their replacements and the replacements of their replacements, those located before the coffin who have not yet carried the deceased and those located after the coffin: Those who are needed to carry the coffin are exempt from reciting Shema; while those who are not needed to carry the coffin, are obligated to recite Shema. However, both are exempt from reciting the Amida prayer.

Caring for the dead is referred to as Chesed Shel Emmes – genuine kindness. When our forefather Yaacov was on his death bed, he instructed his son Yoseph to ensure that he would be transported from Egypt and buried in Israel. Yaacov said to Yoseph, "If you fulfill my request, you will have performed an act of kindness and truth."

It is called genuine kindness because when you do a favor for a living person, in the back of your mind, there is always the thought that perhaps the recipient of my favor will repay me later. However, when doing something for the deceased there is no expectation of ever receiving anything in return.

Why do we observe "kavod ha-met", respect for the dead?

When a person passes away, the neshama (the soul) still feels a connection to its body and stays near it until the burial. During this time period, the soul is aware of how its body is being treated and derives comfort knowing that its body is being given the ultimate respect.

Another reason is the very core of existence and why G-d created the universe.

G-d wanted a home in the physical world. According to the Chassidic masters, this is why the soul descended from heaven and partnered with its physical body. Only the combined effort of body and soul can reveal G-d's presence in this material world. Therefore, when the soul returns home to its Maker, we must offer the greatest level of respect to the soul's worldly partner.

It is worth mentioning that even after the burial, a part of the soul resides permanently at the gravesite. This explains why we visit our loved ones at the cemetery. We are not just visiting a slab of marble and lifeless remains, but rather, part of the eternal spirit of our beloved departed relative.

is the fifth letter of the aleph-bet and has a numerical value of 'five'. The soul has five levels: nefesh, ruach, neshama, and yechidah Rabbi Shneur Zalman of Liadi, the first Chabad Rebbe and the founder of Colel Chabad, writes that the soul is 'truly a part of G-d above'. Therefore, there is no such thing as a distant Jew as our souls are always bound and one with G-d.

What is the secret of Jewish survival? Throughout our history we have lived through pogroms, the crusades, the inquisition, and the holocaust, and somehow, we have survived. And not only have we survived, but we have also flourished.

There is only one explanation we can offer, and that is Divine intervention. Our existence is truly miraculous.

In truth, our very beginning was miraculous. The first Jew to be born was Yitzchak, the son of Abraham and Sarah. Both were of an age where they could no longer bear children. G-d performed a miracle and they were blessed with the first Jewish child. From that moment on, our survival has been nothing short of miraculous.

A great Rabbi who lived in the middle-ages wrote: Every time I wake up in the morning and see myself in the mirror, I am witnessing a miracle far greater than the splitting of the sea. I see a Jew who has lived through the destruction of Two Temples. I see a Jew who has been dispersed to the four corners of the globe and has been exiled for over 1500 years. I see a Jew who has lived through the crusades, the inquisition, and the pogroms.

We can add that when we look in the mirror, we see a Jew who lived through the holocaust and lost 6 million family members. And yet, we are still here. Is this then not the greatest miracle of all? People often say that if we saw miracles like the Jews who left Egypt, we would believe.

If you saw freedom for 8 million Jews from the Former Soviet Union, then know you saw the freedom of 3 million Jews from Egypt.

If you saw our soldiers at the Western Wall on June 7, 1967, then know you have seen a shepherd boy slaying the mighty giant Goliath.

And if you saw the whispering embers rebuild the Jewish world, then know you saw the dry bones of Ezekiel come back to life.
